I am an illustrative artist & abstract painter based in the beautiful county of Suffolk. Inspired by living and working in the country and the variety of natural beauty we are surrounded by here.

My style when working in graphite, is very natural, reflecting the realistic quality, form and movement of the animal. I enjoy creating a sense of character with each of my illustrations, finishing each one off with a name to suit!

My floral & field abstract paintings depict scenes of stunning flowers and grasses. Created with copious layers of acrylic paint, each painting beautifully brings the outside into your precious space.

I graduated from London College of Fashion with a degree in prosthetics, wig making and makeup for TV and theatre. After working freelance on numerous exciting projects including making wigs for the London musical, The Lion King. I chose to complete a PGCE in secondary school Art teaching. I was an Art, Photography and Textiles teacher for 6 years, until which time I left the profession to become a full time Mum to our two children and pursue a career as a professional artist alongside raising both Ellsa and Louis.

For over 10 years I successfully developed and sold a proudly British made, luxury homeware range. Selling hundreds of thousands of pieces from table mats to jugs, tea towels to home fragrance, both from my own website and at events across the country, including The Chelsea Flower Show.

In 2024 I began moving away from homeware, instead focussing back to my love of creating original work. I am enjoying building a more varied collection of unique pieces of art, exploring my love of texture, colour and atmosphere. With a little smattering of some one-off, gorgeous pieces of homeware popped in for good measure!
